

Programme	SLOVENE SCHOLARSHIP FUND EEA/NFM
Measure	Inter-institutional cooperation projects in higher education
Aims and description of the measure	The measure enhances inter-institutional cooperation of the higher education institutions (and other relevant organisations, such as enterprises, NGOs) between the countries participating in the Slovene Scholarship Fund EEA/NFM. Activities that are eligible within the framework of this measure are Intensive programmes (hereinafter IP), which constitute short study programmes on a specific topic (10 full successive days). The programme shall be recognised for the participating students by ECTS credits, which shall count towards regular study requirements.
Beneficiaries	The students and teaching staff of the institutions participating in the IP.
Eligible applicants	Application may only be submitted by legal entities. All participating institutions shall be holders of the Erasmus University Charter. Organisations shall apply in the form of a consortium. A consortium shall be comprised of at least three institutions, of which one shall be from Norway, one from Slovenia and, possibly, in case it represents an added value to the project, or is necessary for the content of the project, also institutions from other countries participating in the EEA/NFM Scholarship Fund. Organisations shall implement the IP in Slovenia.

ASSESSMENT AND SELECTION PROCEDURES
General eligibility criteria	General eligibility criteria for applications under the programme Slovene Scholarship Fund EEA/NFM are provided in the Guide for Applicants. Participating countries: in addition to the donor states (Norway, Iceland and Liechtenstein), Portugal, Spain, Malta, Cyprus, Greece, Bulgaria, Romania, Hungary, Slovakia, the Czech Republic, Poland, Estonia, Lithuania, Latvia and Slovenia are participating in the programme.
Special eligibility criteria:	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> - Applications shall be submitted by organisations that are legal entities. - All participating organisations (coordinators and partners) shall hold the Erasmus University Charter. - Activities shall not include research activities or conferences. - A consortium shall include at least three participating organisations from at least two different countries. At least one participating organisation shall be from Norway and one from Slovenia. - The planned location for the IP is Slovenia. - Participants shall include at least 10 eligible students that are not from Slovenia. - The IP shall run uninterrupted; work days that are connected to a specific topic may only be separated by the weekends or national holidays. - Proposals for IPs that are a part of an Erasmus Mundus Master's or Doctorate programme shall not be eligible. - Project promoter may implement a maximum of two IPs within the framework of one project within two years. The participating students and teaching staff shall be: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> - citizens of the countries participating in the programme Slovene Scholarship Fund or EEA/NFM; - citizens of other states who are regular students at higher education organisations, or are employed or work in a participating country in line with the conditions as set forth by each participating country and in accordance of the manner of the programme.
Minimum number of countries	2
Minimum number of partners	3
Award criteria	1. Relevance

	The benefits of the Bilateral/European cooperation in the provision of intensive courses in specific subjects - e.g. added value of the offered IP versus existing courses on the level of the participating institutions, are clear and well-defined. The IP includes a multidisciplinary approach, which enhances cooperation between students from various fields of academia.
	2. Quality of goals; innovative character
	The goals and principles of the IP are clear, realistic and deal with an appropriate topic. The IP shall offer to the participating students and teaching staff a significant novelty in the meaning of learning opportunities, the development of competencies, access to information and others.
	3. Methodology and work programme
	The methodology is consistent with set goals. A clear description of the pedagogical and didactic approaches is provided. The proposal defines target groups. An explanation of the method of selection of participating students is provided. The balance of staff and students allows for active group work. Students that will participate in an IP shall receive ECTS credits. The proposal provides a description of measures to ensure study recognition within the framework of the IP.
	4. Learning outcomes, ECTS and recognition
	The expected learning outcomes are relevant. The IPs, in addition to learning outcomes, support transfer of cross-competencies with regard to competencies in connection to subjects. The work (study) load of the participating students is recognised by ECTS credits. The proposal provides a description of the provisions on the recognition of studies carried out within the framework of the intensive programme.
5. Partnership, leadership, monitoring and project evaluation
Partnership is of high quality. The distribution of tasks between partners ensures the achievement of the outcomes and active involvement of all partners. There is an appropriate balance between the partners in the meaning of their responsibilities and inclusion in the activities being implemented. Appropriate measures are foreseen to ensure efficient communication and cooperation between partners. Financial and contractual obligations are clearly explained. Monitoring and IP evaluation measures are clearly defined and effective.
6. Dissemination and use of outcomes; IP effect
Dissemination and use of IP outcomes activities are well-planned and shall ensure optimal use of outcomes by the participating institutions and, if feasible, in the wider community. The expected outcomes are relevant and shall affect the quality of teaching in the relevant subject field at the participating institutions. The proposal indicates multiplier effects or potential spin-off outcomes of the IP.
